Dear Parent and Carers,

There is a lot going on at the moment and it is challenging in some ways to look towards September. However, with the cost of living as it is it is really important than anyone who is doing any back-to- school shopping at some point in the next 6 weeks gets it right and does not buy the wrong stuff.

For that reason, we would like to share this short reminder on school uniform.

- Footwear should be black. This means black shoes for normal days and black trainers for PE days*
- The bottom half (skirts/trousers) should be black or grey. This is true on PE days and on normal days
- The top half should be a red top. The exception here is that white polo shirts are also school uniform. We are very pleased if you purchase the uniform with a logo and because it may save money, we are completely fine about tops that do not have the logo.
- The other exception is the white and red gingham summer dress. If you child is wearing this item this is also school uniform.

* Recently we have allowed PE kit to be worn on PE days. This has been a sensible and practical arrangement that has gone down well. However, we would now ask that all footwear, including footwear worn on PE days, is black. This is smart, consistent, and fair. It also means that less time is wasted checking days and footwear options. This is a small change on our previous policy.

All PE kit and footwear should be free from obvious branding. Manufacturers are wise to this requirement from schools and the very subtle same coloured branding is fine. Footwear should not have stripes or other markings in a different colour- they should be all black. A thin sole of a different colour is acceptable. Please avoid thick white soles and the soles with complex and ostentatious plastic bits. This sort of uniform policy is very common now and there plenty of options that meet these guidelines.

Tesco and Monsoon support us with uniform. We judge their products to be of high quality and durable. There is a link on our website where you will find other guidance on uniform as well:

Some parents feel that traditional school shoes are more durable. Some children like wearing training shoes. So long as they are completely black, we are fine with either on PE days and on normal days.
